Courtland Partners Adds Senior Professionals to Advisory Team

(March 3, 2016) – Courtland Partners, Ltd., a leading institutional real asset (real estate, infrastructure, agriculture and timber) consulting services firm, announced today that it has added four senior professionals to further expand its advisory capabilities.

The four senior professionals joining the firm are Gila R. Cohen, Jeremy S. Goldberg, Thomas R. Hester and Daniel A. Wolnik, CPA. Ms. Cohen, who is in New York City, has over 25 years of experience. She worked previously with Capital Dynamics, a global private equity firm where she ran the investment management group and focused on strategic planning and client development. Mr. Goldberg joined Courtland's Cleveland office and has over 20 years of experience. He worked previously with Associated Estates Realty Corporation, a $2.5 billion public apartment REIT, where he was a senior corporate finance and investor relations executive. Mr. Hester joined Courtland's Los Angeles office and has over 30 years of experience. He previously worked as a finance executive at Mesa West, an institutional real estate debt investment manager. Other prior experience includes real estate consulting, accounting and reporting, regulatory compliance and valuation services. Mr. Wolnik re-joined Courtland in Cleveland as a senior finance executive. He has over 25 years of real estate, consulting and financial reporting experience with both privately held businesses and public companies, including Forest City Enterprises, a $10 billion public real estate operating company.

Michael Humphrey, founder and Managing Principal of Courtland said, "We are pleased that Gila, Jeremy, Tom and Dan have joined Courtland. These talented professionals are helping us to
